NO ROMANCE IN IT.

The Latter Came at Last, But It Did Not Contain What He Had Expected.

"It must have been quite a year ago," and inquired for a letter in his name. and he looked much disappointed when I could find none to hand out. Since coming twice a week, most always garding same. when I was on duty, and as no letter for him ever arrived I had considerable curiosity regarding his case. In fact, I built up a romance around him. I took it that he might have separated from his wife in some distant town and was hoping to hear from her and make up the quarrel, and I actually came to feel hard toward her because she refused to write. It seemed to me that the man was failing in health as he lost hope, and now and then I gave him a cheerful word to brace him up. A week ago I saw his name on a letter, and next time he called I passed it out with the remark:

"Here is your long-expected letter at last, and I hope it contains good

"He stepped away from the window to read it, and after a few minutes he ame back to say: "'I didn't get it."

'Why. I sent to my brother-in-law n Pittsburg almost a year ago to borew a dollar to buy some porous plasters, and he writes me that he can't well spare it, and that I'd better use mustard instead!"

REGARDING THE CORONATION. An Advertising Expert Tells Something About the Effects of the Great Event. The coronation of Edward is one of the greatest subjects for adverfising at the present time. There are few trades or manufacturers that are not going to be benefited by it. For months to come the goods to be sed, the jewelry to be worn, the olors to be fashionable, and the hapes of shoes and hats that will take their complexion from the coronation event, will be the subject of discussion and description throughout the world, says the National Ad-

Go to any steamship office to-day n this city and you will find that early date stater cabins and choice places are bein spoken for the early summer and oming royal event. Speak to any of the prominent society people, and all their arrangements are made with due regard to the great fashionable display of the coming year. And when the pageant is over there will be more coronation gloves, coronation scarfs, coronation collars, coronation hats, coronation everything in fact, from souvenirs of the memento order to a good article of the king's own whisky, than can be figured on just now. That is why the coronation of Edward is going to be a good thing in its way, apart from its royal import.

THE USE OF STAMPS.

Enough Issued in One Year by the United States to Girdle the Globe Three Times.

When a stamp is placed on a letter it represents one of 60 made for each man, woman and child in the United States. Enough stamps will be issued this year to supply each individual in the United States with at least 60 stamps each. Distributed among the population of the entire globe, they supply each person with postage for not less than three letters. Placed side by side in a continuous line the total issue would girdle the entire earth three times, forming a variegated ribbon around it nearly three inches in width. If spread out in the same manner across the United States the stamps would form a paper side-walk from New York to San Francisco over three feet wide. Pasted into a stamp collector's book of the conventional size, the issue for the year would half fill 1,000,000 volumes, which, placed one upon another, would form a solid column over 25 miles high. If it is true, as Edward Everett Hale says, that the United States postal system is the greatest of popular educators, these figures will serve to show the extent of Uncle Sam's present service as a school-teacher.

Arms of Venus of Milo.

A leter is published at Paris from the aged Admiral Reveillere to the effect that Brest, a former French consul at Milo, who was influential in the Levant, having heard of the discovery of the famous statue of the Venus of Milo, which is now in the Louvre, im-nediately opened negotiations for its acquisition by France, which, thanks to his exertions, were successful. Ad-miral Lespes, who touched at Milo durmg the Crimean war, found Brest indignant that no mention of him was made nant that no mention of him was made at the Louvre in connection with the statue. He exclaimed, vehemently: "I know where the arms of the Venus are, but no one shall ever see them." Admiral Reveillere adds that it is strange no steps were ever taken to test the truth of Brest's statement contesting the arms. serning the arms.
